

When the going gets tough, it's the people around us who keep us strong.

The relationships we've built through everyday interactions within our communities build bonds and give us strength to bounce back in times of adversity. Watch the film to see how the power of many can help one overcome trying times. #WeAreResilience

We are Resilience

From people going out of their way to return lost wallets, to communities standing up for each other, these stories from the diverse communities in Singapore remind us that together, we are Resilience.
